Teaching Philosophy

In my teaching I try and draw from players past experience with other sports or activities that incorporate similar movements to the golf swing. I am able to gain insight into the player's history and they will be able to transfer already known skills to their golf game. My teaching strategy is "keep it simple" and "do what you know, not what you think you know". The goal of my instruction is for the student to leave knowing the cause and effect of the changes being made and for them to be able to continue the progress/improvement in between lessons.

Favorite golfer: Tiger Woods

Favorite golf course played: Palouse Ridge Golf Club, Pullman, WA

Best golf tip: If you want to really improve your scores, spend more time on your short game and less time hitting full shots

Favorite thing to do when not golfing: Spend time with family and friends and watching sporting events.
